

Bob Upgren has dedicated his life to helping individuals and organizations become everything they were created to be. As an author and independent consultant he has been routinely praised by such organizations as the NBA, Make-A-Wish Foundation, Verizon Wireless, Blue Cross Blue Shield, and many more. As one of the emerging thought leaders in the country, Bob Upgren is consistently called upon to stand before leaders and high potential team members. He has become an invaluable resource in challenging, mentoring, and leading others to become everything they were created to be.

He is the co-founder of the first faith-based basketball camp program in the region. In its 16-year history, the program has garnered national attention and has been a consistent force in connecting some of the greatest players ever to don an NBA uniform to the youth who participate. He has personally worked side by side with Spud Webb, Rick Barry, A.C. Green, Meadowlark Lemon of the Harlem Globetrotters and Mike Miller. Even Michael Jordan's personal trainer, Tim Grover has partnered with Upgren to join in his mission of using sports to minister to young people. He is one of only three "new school" chalk artists in the world, using this amazing talent to create life-changing metaphors that lead people toward greater purpose in work and life.
