

Bob Upgren has dedicated his life to helping individuals become everything God created them to be. He is the co-founder of the first faith-based basketball camp program in the region. In its 16-year history, the program has garnered national attention and has been a consistent force in connecting some of the greatest players ever to don an NBA uniform to the youth who participate. He has personally worked side by side with Spud Webb, Rick Barry, A.C. Green, Meadowlark Lemon of the Harlem Globetrotters and Mike Miller. Even Michael Jordan's personal trainer, Tim Grover has partnered with Upgren to join in his mission of using sports to minister to young people.

He is one of only three "new school" chalk artists in the world, using this amazing talent to create life-changing metaphors. His passion in life is to lead people toward a closer relationship to Jesus Christ and helping them become everything they were created to be.
